Of late the infusion of "new blood" into the Board in 1891 will be materially different in feeling and political complexion from the present one.

President Simmons had announced his intended to resigning several days ago, on account of the pressure of private husiness. The Board yesterday on motion of Commissioner Gallaway, adopted resolutions complimentary to the retiring president and reacting the necessity which causes his loss to the Board.

Mr. J. H. Tamson, by the Mayor's appointment, took his seat as the successor of Commissioner Kuhne.

amicably settled, the Union men proposing to accept a corresponding reduction of wages provided the workday does not exceed eight hours.

Committees of the Employers' Association and of the Union had a long discussion before Commissioner Donovan at the Clarendon Hotel this forenoon.

The conference was about to break up without settlement, when ex-Alderman Charles Cooter, who is one of the largest builder. Cooper, who is one of the largest builders in Brooklyn, stepped in with the olive branch of peace and the two committees agreed to come together as soon as possible on the basis offered by the union men.

An agreement is to be made which is to last until Sept. 1, 1801, unless there is a change of wages and hours in the trade in this city.
